The meeting will be held at the Cayce high school, Cayce, on Saturday, July 19. Registration will begin at 10:00 a. m.

The plans include one of the biggest electrical appliance and equipment shows ever seen in this area. A large tent has been secured for the meeting in which the appliances and equipment will be displayed. Several lucky members will receive electrical appliances which will be given away at this meeting. Members must register to be eligible for these prizes. At the present time, the list of these prizes is incomplete, but it will be announced at a later date.

A short business session will be held in the auditorium of the high school at which time members will elect a board of directors, hear the manager's report, and vote on any other items of business to come before the cooperative at that time.

An invitation is extended to every member to be present and bring his family or friends to the meeting, as indications are that it will be very interesting, not only from the standpoint of the business conducted, but from the modern electrical equipment that will be displayed.

VERNON C. COLE IS SERIOUSLY INJURED ON BUILDING SITE

Vernon C. Cole of Martin, Tenn., an employee of the A. R. Stephens Contracting Co., of Fulton was painfully and seriously injured Tuesday when a power-driven saw dropped on his left leg, severing the flesh to the bone.

A short circuit in the wires connected to the saw shocked Mr. Cole, resulting in his losing control of the saw.

Quick thinking on the part of Paul Bushart, owner of the project, who administered first aid on the scene, relieved much of the suffering as well as prevented the loss of a considerable amount of blood.

Mr. Cole was taken to Haws Memorial hospital where 30 stitches were taken in the wound. He is reported to be resting well.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray McConnell of Chattanooga are the guests of her mother, Mrs. Charles Pope.

Mrs. Hattie Buckner of Nashville is visiting her sister, Mrs. Arch Huddleston, Sr., on Eddings street.

Little Phoebe

"Is it true that wives of members of the Young Men's Business Club went to the barbecue at the Country Club fully armed," the ladies of the bridge club inquired of each other at their weekly session.

"For heaven's why," asked the little lady who had not been reading the local papers.

But Lil Phoebe just laughed and laughed because she knew if the ladies went to the party disguised as the modern day Molly Pitcher it was because of a story in the daily paper that said.

"A gala barbecue and chicken dinner will be held for all Young Men's Business Club members and their wives or other lady guests."

FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1947

NUMBER TWENTY-THREE

A LETTER TO THE EDITORS

Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Inc.
521 Fincastle Building
Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Westpheling
Editors and Publishers
The Fulton County News
Fulton, Ky.

Dear Editors Westpheling:
Recently a friend sent me an editorial from your paper entitled "Does Fulton Really Want Industry?"

Please accept the congratulations of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce on your vision. Non-nuisance industry (without smokestacks) can contribute much to even so fine a little town as Fulton. Its job opportunities, large payrolls and accompanying civic improvement resulting from new sources of taxation, are benefits that all of Kentucky should be anxious to enjoy.

As you intimate you have not been in the state too long, I am sending you under separate cover a recent publication of this organization entitled "Kentucky on the Next Frontier." It explains that we are a non-profit corporation, supported by businessmen for the single purpose of building a greater state with particular emphasis on industrial development. Perhaps as your program becomes more substantial, you will find occasion for it to be of increasing interest to you and the good citizens of Fulton.

Particularly, our office is most anxious to learn who will be the first to say "I will serve." You see, in order for us on the state level to channel industry into the local communities where, after all, industry does locate, we must learn certain basic data about your town and county. For this purpose, we have designed certain forms and attempt to secure their completion by interested persons in the 161 towns with whom we are in regular contact.

Now it may well be that we can help answer your question, for on February 9 of this year Clifford L. Shields, Secretary of the Young Men's Business Club wrote us expressing his interest in industrial development and was in return sent these forms. Then on March 8, Frank T. Beadles, President of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce likewise wrote and in fact asked if we had any forms to be filled out. Not knowing the outcome of our previous contact, we sent a set of schedules to him also.

Just this morning, two representatives and the owner of a large manufacturing company in Chicago left our office for a 4-day tour of the state and will be in your section, but because we didn't have the economic data necessary to arouse their interest in your community, despite the fact that you are on the main line of the ICRR, on which they would like very much to be located, Fulton had no possibility of being included on their itinerary. It is our desire to furnish all possible service to any community that wishes industrial development and I am hopeful, that possibly through your interest, an industrial committee can be formed within your chamber that will give us an active contact in Fulton.

Kindest personal regards.

Yours for a greater Kentucky,
LOUIS QUINN,
Secretary

FULTON CHICKS STAGE COMEBACK AS WINNING STREAK PUTS TEAM IN 4TH PLACE

Since the arrival of Fred Biggs as manager of the Fulton Chicks, the club has snapped out of its slump and climbed to a tie with Hopkinsville for fourth place in the league.

From a low in seventh place, and one-half game out of the cellar, the Chicks have won ten of their last 13 games. Last week their 7-game winning streak was halted at Hopkinsville, but they came back Saturday with a win, split a double-header Sunday, lost Monday, won Tuesday and were rained out Wednesday.

The Chicks, currently on the road at Union City, return to Fulton Monday for a 3-game series with Mayfield, and leave for Mayfield for another 3-game series July 3 and 4. From Mayfield they journey to Cairo for a week-end series.

MRS. LORA PETTY HORTON REALIZES LIFE'S AMBITION; ORIGINAL SONGS ARE PUBLISHED

A local lady realized the ambition of a lifetime when she was notified this week that two of her songs have been published by the Los Angeles Bible Institute in collaboration with Dr. Herbert G. Tovey, one of the leading composers and publishers of religious music in the country.

The lady is Mrs. Lora Petty Horton of 709 East State Line and a resident of Fulton for the past forty years. Her songs, "Coming Then for Me," a song of the blessed hope and "Peace be Still," a new song of God's watchful care, have already received national recognition when they were sung by the Bible Institute choir of 32-voices over the Mutual Broadcasting System of more than 200 stations.

Mrs. Horton has been composing and singing her own songs in and around this territory for more than 40 years. Writing the lyrics to songs has given her more pleasure than any other pastime in which she has participated.

"I want the story of my songs being published be encouragement to the many song-writers who continue to get rejection slips. I have gotten them ever since I started writing and now my efforts have been repaid," she told a News reporter. "Singing the songs has been a blessing," she said.

Her song, "Coming Then for Me," was dedicated to her son Melvin Horton, who lost his life in World War II. It was his encouragement while in the service that spurred her on with her song-writing.

The songs have been registered under her own copyright. They will be sung over Station WNGO at Mayfield at 9:30 a. m. Sunday June 29th.

PAUL DURBIN GAINING STRENGTH IN DISTRICT LOCAL VOTERS HELP

Encouraging reports from every county in the first railroad district have been received by Paul J. Durbin, candidate for Railroad Commissioner in this district, his campaign office revealed today.

"The ball has started rolling," a spokesman said, "and if the campaign continues to gain the momentum it has already, Paul should certainly get the nomination without any trouble," he added.

Mr. Durbin, a popular and prominent lawyer of Fulton is the only veteran and the only lawyer in the race.

"Many local citizens have started writing to their friends and relatives over the district urging them to use their influence in getting Paul elected," the spokesman advised, "and if everyone in Fulton and surrounding territory would do the same the territory would be well circularized with the slogan that is sure to produce a winner. . . Durbin for Railroad Commissioner," he said.

Mr. Durbin is busily engaged in contacting voters in the district.

The plant has been completed and is now in operation.

Hallowe'en won't be what it used to be if cities generally install a new hard-to-break street light lens exhibited at the recent National Plastics Exposition in Chicago.

Facts and Figures of Industry are Revealed

An estimated $14,500,000 in cash is received annually by farmers and wage earners in this territory as a result of cash purchases of farm products and salaries paid to employees, by leading industries in this section, it was revealed to members of the Rotary Club at their weekly meeting on Tuesday. An additional estimated $200,000 goes directly to down-town merchants resulting from the more than 1500 tourist automobiles which travel the near-by highways each day, the speaker pointed out.

"Fulton is the largest stock shipping point, exclusive of terminals, on the Illinois Central," he said. "Its three yards, Kennett-Murray and Latta, Neal Ward and Son and W. B. Davis and Son, last year paid out some $4,000,000 for hogs, cattle and sheep and this year will nearly double that figure."

The speaker stated that the garment factory's annual payroll averages $250,000 a year according to best available figures. Swift and Company whose current purchases are not available approximated $750,000 annually in pre-war years, exclusive of cream purchases, he said.

Local cream buyers, including Swift and Company have averaged $1,500,000 per year in cream purchases, according to figures available. The Illinois Central employment figure is nearly 1,000 with 70 to 75 percent of this number residing in Fulton and immediate area. The estimated minimum payroll of this group is $2,074,000, with the employees living in Fulton receiving $1,500,000 of the total figure, he revealed.

Brayley Milling Company, which this year has paid out to farmers an estimated $1,200,000 for corn alone, is now beginning the wheat season purchases, which last year approximated $100,000.

In addition to the above industries there are many smaller but growing firms in Fulton whose payrolls are becoming increasingly larger with each year. Among these is the Fulton Pure Milk Company, whose milk purchases from farmers are among the largest in western Kentucky, he stated.

Paul Westpheling, publisher of the Fulton County News who delivered the talk, predicted unusual progress for Fulton because of its strategic location in the center of a well-diversified farm section and its easy accessibility to all forms of fast transportation.

"Holier Than Thou? . . ."

Once there was a catalogue salesman who tried to sell a farmer a booklet on how to improve his farm. The land was poorly cared for, the barns needed improvement, the house was badly in need of repairs and the whole farm showed a decided lack of attention.

After a brisk and all-inclusive talk about what his booklets would do to improve conditions for the farmer, the salesman turned to the farmer for an answer. The farmer replied:

"Shucks, I don't need them things. I ain't farming now nearly as well as I know how."

The answer is thought-provoking.

In every town in the United States there is always a certain amount of criticism of conditions . . . mainly adding up to the point that "how much better we would be if we had better government, more industry, more progressive merchants . . . etc, etc."

We wonder if those who criticize ever stop to consider whether they are making the most of what they have. When a merchant criticizes does he first ask himself, "have I exerted my very best efforts to build my business, and have I gone as far as I can go." When a self-styled civic leader criticizes, does he first ask himself, "have I exerted my every effort to improve these things myself." We wonder.

You will generally find that the workers who really do things go along saying little and trying hard; the noise comes from the sidelines where nothing is attempted or accomplished.

We subscribe to the idea that improvement in the business conditions of any town is in direct ratio to the efforts of businessmen to improve it themselves . . . those who roll up their sleeves, clean up their store and GO AFTER business will get the business from their town and their trading area.

Check up on yourself and see if you are really doing as intelligent and aggressive a job as you know how.

A Little Man Writes A Big Story

The stories about the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt continue to flood the market. No subject in recent years has prompted so many, to write so much about so little . . . so little real subject matter.

They have written of his health, his disposition, his idiosyncrasies, his decisions on national and international matters, his safety, his personality, his views and his loyalties, to mention only a few. Now comes Jim Farley with articles in Collier's magazine about his sincerities and his honesty.

Some of the stories have been good, some bad, some indelicately commercial like the one written by his son, "As He Saw It."

But this one by Farley beats them all. If ever a man used a friendship to make money, Jim Farley is doing just that. He has uncovered even the smallest weakness of this great man to put his memory in a bad light, knowing full well he is pretty safe in saying what he pleases.

What we want to know is . . . why didn't big Jim have the courage to write these articles while Roosevelt was alive. He no doubt enjoyed basking in Roosevelt's reflected glory and hoped beyond hope that he would some day get back in the fold.

He didn't though, and showing himself a little man he is putting into print the grudge he has harbored for a long time. Don't know what he has to gain except a pretty fat fee from Collier's.

Stop Rust In Water Lines With "Micromet"

MICROMET is a slowly soluble phosphate glass especially developed for use in preventing scale and corrosion in water systems.

MICROMET dissolves at the rate of 25 per cent per month. The rate of solution is very nearly independent of the rate of water passing through. Very small amounts of MICROMET are required—one ounce to each 1000 to 2500 gallons.

We have a household chemical feeder to install on the line between pump and tank to hold MICROMET.

Round House Round-Up

By ALICE CLARK

Hello Everybody;

Here we are again with the "Roundhouse Round-up" what all railroaders look for in the good old "News." Well gang lets talk about safety for just a minute. You know the IC was the "safety first" last year in other words it was No. 1 in safety, and I know everyone feels as I do, they want it to be number 1, in 1947 so lets get our safety rule book and lean it by heart, and repeat one rule each morning that will make us safety minded. Lets take rule 196: Employee's must not walk or step on rail, frog, switch, guard rail, interlocking machine or connection.

Well folks we want to introduce two of our family to day, they are Malcrum C. Bugg, caller and the man who feeds us and has since 1912, Mr. Abe Jolley.

Malcrum C. Bugg was born in Arlington, Ky., November 7, 1886. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Bugg. He attended the city schools of Arlington until 1901 when with his parents they moved to Fulton, Ky., where Malcrum attended South Fulton school. During the summer months he worked around the drug stores and grocery stores then in 1907 he hired out with the ICRR Co. as a laborer with a fencing crew building right away fences between Cairo, Ill., and Jackson, Tenn. He worked at this until 1909 when he went to work as a laborer at the freight office and worked there until 1911, and in 1911 he went to work as a caller and has worked at this ever since. Malcrum's hobby is baseball. He hasn't been married.

There's a little place called "Jolley's," where you can get sandwiches, soft drinks, plate lunches, candy's, chewing gum, cakes and all kinds of smokes. This is called the railroad man's heaven. This is where he eats and loafs; if anything happens around or in a radius of 150 miles Jolley's hears it. He hears the railroad man's troubles as well as feeds him. When a man out of Jackson, Paducah, or Memphis comes to Fulton and is here longer than his rest he always goes and sets around "Jolley's" and talks with the boys so therefore they kinda look at the place like home.

The man that runs this place is the likeable Mr. Abe Jolley better known to his friends as Abe. Abe was born in Weakley county, Martin, Tenn., October 16, 1887. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jolley. Abe attended the city schools of Martin and a few months before finishing school he decided the baseball was calling and he must go so he started a baseball career in 1905 and in which he made quite a name for himself. He was one of the members of the famous Jack Frost baseball team of Fulton in 1908, and in 1909, 1910, and 1911 he played with Fort Worth, Texas. In 1911 he came back to Fulton and claimed Miss Arvazins Roach as a bride, and went back to Texas and played until 1912. After the season in 1912 he quite and came to "Jolley's Place" which is the railroad man's heaven and has run this place since 1912. Abe belongs to the Mason's Lodge, is on the Board of Stewards at the First Methodist church and has been since 1919, also has served as a city councilman in South Fulton since 1920. Mr. and Mrs. Jolley make their home at 209 West State Line street.

We have signs displayed in offices throughout the system reading "Courtesy and Service not Rationed in this office."

Courtesy and Service unlike articles of trade are not rationed, and ration points are not required. If we will make it a point to be courteous and accommodating to the shipping and traveling public, the problem of public relations will take care of itself.

Employees should make it a practice of being courteous and helpful in dealing with each other and if this is done it will go a long day towards doing the same thing when we come in contact with our patrons. Our experience has been when we cooperate with other employee's it makes for efficiency, and this is reflected when we come to dealing with the public.

Courtesy and service is as free as the air, but if we will be accommodating and helpful to our patrons it will leave a definite and lasting impression. What we are trying to accomplish is to induce the public to ship freight and travel over our railroad.

Are you a wife, daughter or son of a railroader? You are! Well give me a ring and give me the news 2900 or 3600 an dask for Old Sister Clark.

Little Miss Rita Marianne Keiser was honored on her sixth birthday Monday afternoon by her mother, Mrs. E. D. Keiser at their home on Norman street.

Each place was marked with flower place cards attached to favors of small pink and blue baskets of candy.

Flash pictures were made of the group around the table. Mrs. Keiser was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ernest Cardwell and Eddie Keiser Jr. After the refreshments Rita opened all her lovely gifts.
